

Wikipedia Edit-a-thon for Women's History Month!

This is a campus-wide event to improve Wikipedia articles on underrepresented figures in STEM such as women, minorities, and LGBTQIA+ individuals.

Students, Faculty, and Staff Welcome!

Food will be Provided

A Wikipedia Edit-A-Thon is a large, scheduled social event that gathers individuals together to add to, improve, copy edit, and Wikify articles on a given topic. By working side-by-side with other editors, participants can use their diverse knowledge, research skills, and digital editing abilities to contribute their existing expertise or engage in new research during the event. Participants can share their research, exercise their social responsibilities as members of a prestigious technical institute, and expand the influence of diverse voices in STEM! See Twitter account @WCP_Innovation for updates.

Saturday, March 3rd

10am-2:00pm

Naugle CommLab and Rehearsal Rooms,
CULC 447 and adjoining rooms

Sponsored by the Curricular Innovation Committee of the Writing and Communication Program, The Naugle CommLab, and the Women's Resource Center